

Elks Narcotics Proposal Gets Moose Support

The Torrance lodge of the Loyal Order of Moose fraternity, acting jointly with the other lodges of California, will add its support to the narcotic control legislation proposed by the Elks by sending endorsement resolutions to our representatives in Sacramento this week, Joseph Piatt, civic affairs chairman, announced this week.

Business commitments will prevent James McCune, lodge governor, from presenting the resolutions in person. McCune was invited to join the Elk Caravan on the journey to the state capitol.

The Elk resolution, written in stronger language than the Torrance Moose lodge resolution presented to Assemblyman Thomas four years ago, asks for longer minimum sentences.
